

BREAKUP SEASON

an independent feature film production filming in La Grande, Oregon in February 2023

Call for Local Crew Members

Synopsis: 24-year-old Ben brings his girlfriend Cassie from Los Angeles to his small Oregon hometown for Christmas. After a tumultuous first meeting with Ben's parents and siblings, the couple gets into an argument that spirals into a breakup. But with winter conditions, Cassie is stuck with Ben's eccentric family for the rest of the trip. The holiday goes from Xmas... to Ex-Mas.

Creative Team: The film is written & directed by H. Nelson Tracey and produced by Static Films, a boutique production company based in Los Angeles known for producing thoughtful, independent stories from emerging filmmakers. The cast will include recognizable film and television actors. The crew will include a blend of visiting filmmakers and local residents collaborating to produce the film.

The screenplay was developed through the Eastern Oregon Filmmaker Residency. With a colorful ensemble and a balance of drama and comedy, Breakup Season evokes movies such as Little Miss Sunshine, Lady Bird, or The Family Stone. Unique to our film is an intricate exploration of early 20s relationships with an authentic approach not often seen in cinema.

This will be the first feature film shot in the Grande Ronde Valley. The film's release will begin with a nationwide film festival tour, followed by a VOD and/or theatrical release during the 2024 holiday season.
